LONDON, December 20.

A letter from Warsaw, dated Nov. 24, has this passage: "The session of the 19th has been remarkable by the Sieur Wielhorski, who said, "It was necessary to be upon the guard "against neighbouring states; against a mighty King (levelled at his Majesty himself) against "powerful citizens, such as the commissioners of the treasury; and that measures ought to "be taken in consequence; for which purpose," (added the Sieur Wielhorski) "I have "formed a project, with intention to remit it to the Marshal of the Dyet." The Bishop of Cracovia seconded this proposition, and the Marshal of the Dyet at length accepted the project; but the reading of it was postponed."

No less than six children have been dropt this week, at the door of an Irish nobleman, at the west end of the town, with labels, importing, that the father of each was resident in the family; be this as it may, his lordship's humanity was extensive enough to order them all to nurse; and it is said he has bought half a dozen tickets to try their fortune in the present lottery, generously intending to dedicate whatever profits may arise to the use of the little orphans.

Letters from Cette in Languedoc say, that the inhabitants were in as much consternation during the storm, which happened there on the 14th, 15th, and 16th of November last, as if the town had been under a bombardment. Several shot were fired from the cannon in one of the forts, in order to break the cloud which hung over them, and which charged the place with rain.

His Catholic Majesty, for the maintenance of the forty two regiments of militia, to be levied in Castille, has laid a duty of two reals upon every measure of salt, abolishing all other taxes within the said province; a circumstance which, it is thought, will greatly tend to conciliate him the hearts of his subjects.

DECEMBER 27.

His Excellency Prince Masserano, ambassador from Spain, has within these few days received some important dispatches from his Court, and it is imagined that the affair of the Manilla ransom will be brought to a speedy conclusion.

It has been remarked, that during the five last administrations, they have all had the majority in parliament, and carried every point they proposed, a convincing proof of the utility of each of their measures; so that the frequent changes of ministers and placemen, cannot be owing to any bad conduct, but to a very laudable maxim lately adopted, of equally rewarding all the nobility and gentry in rotation with pensions, places, reversions, sinecures &c &c. And we hear that shortly the time will be limited for the continuance of each; which will be the best scheme ever yet adopted to quiet all parties, as they will be sure of being rewarded in succession.

A writer of some eminence was lately applied to by a great man for the assistance of his pen, and promised a lucrative office in case his productions were attended with success. Extract of a letter from an English gentleman at Amsterdam, to his friend in London, dated Dec. 18.—"It is the general opinion of our politicians here, that a fresh war in the empire will soon be kindled. The disposition of the King of Prussia, they say, may easily be discovered; and whether the present pretext be unanimity of voices in the Diet of Poland, or any other seeming foreign cause, the ordering of his officers immediately to join their respective corps, and many other internal regulations, evince that such an event is expected at Berlin. Whatever may be the pretence, we doubt not but the cause may be traced to the ancient bone of contension, Silesia. It is however to be hoped, that as England can derive no advantage from the entire possession of that province, either by the house of Austria or Brandenburgh, we shall have prudence enough not to intermeddle in a quarrel, which should no way interest us. If we are not convinced, that the balance of power is a phantom, which we have been pursuing for upwards of a century, we should at least be convinced, that the national debt it hath created really exists, and must naturally be increased whenever we renew the chace."

The addition of a shilling a day, we now hear, will be made to the half-pay of the navy lieutenants, and two shillings more a day, we are told, will be given to the Captains; an expence which gives the public infinitely more pleasure than dissatisfaction.

They appeared to be descended from a race of Tartars, and are to be accompanied in their return by some learned Geographers, appointed by the Empress, for making discoveries of the streight which separates America from Asia.

We are told the following humourous circumstance as a matter of fact which happened a few days since. A certain turner, at no considerable distance from the Strand, upon hearing that the post of solicitor of the excise was vacant, was informed by some ways that it was a place for which a turner was qualified; and he serving a great nobleman with turnery goods, very innocently went to the nobleman's lady to solicit her Ladyship's interest to be appointed to the above employment, which caused much diversion in the nobleman's family, when the affair became public.

On Monday evening a woman pretended to be taken in labour near the Seven Dials, which drew a concourse of people about her, and after a collection had been made for her, she was carried in a coach to the workhouse, and a midwife attended, when in their great surprize she was delivered of a false belly composed of rags; she was carried the next morning before a magistrate, who committed her to Bridewell as an impostor.

Some of our correspondents acquaint us, that a very extraordinary letter from a great person has been lately received by a society of great reputation in the university of Oxford, which is at present the subject of much conversation there, and will probably in a little time become the object of more public notice. They likewise make mention of an uncertain report, that some important ministerial change is now brewing in the North: But this, we have good reason to believe, is a groundless apprehension; as we have received no such intelligence from any other quarter.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

(L. S.)

By the honourable EGERTON LEIGH, Esq; sole Judge of his Majesty's high Court of Vice Admiralty.

EGERTON LEIGH, J. V. A.

WHEREAS a certain libel was on the 10th day of December last exhibited and filed in this court by Samuel Pleasants, and Samuel Rhodes, of the city of Philadelphia, for recovery of certain sums of money borrowed by one William Earl of Rhode-Island, on the bottom of certain sloop called the industry, her tackle, furniture and apparel, which said William Earl is sole owner of the said sloop.

AND WHEREAS in support of the actors demand an exemplification of the original bill of bottomry, from some public office in Philadelphia was produced, but unaccompanied with any evidence of a subsisting debt, notwithstanding the said libellers did, by their libel, aver, that the debt sued for is unsatisfied, and that no part thereof is paid, and it appearing to me that the proofs in this cause were insufficient in law for me to decree a condemnation and sale of the said vessel; I did therefore, on mature deliberation, interlocutorily order and adjudge, that the said vessel should remain in the charge and custody of the marshal of this court, and that the libellers shall transmit the original bill of bottomry, or give due proof that the debt demanded is still subsisting and unsatisfied; and also, that the said William Earl, the owner, shall have notice to come in and contest the Merits of the actors libel.

THESE ARE THEREFORE to cite and admonish the said William Earl, the owner of the said sloop Industry, to be, and appear before me, at the usual place of judicature, in Charles-Town, within three calendar months from the date hereof, to shew cause, (if any they have) why the said vessel should not be condemned agreeable to the prayer of the actors libel.

GIVEN under my hand and the seal of the high court of Vice Admiralty aforesaid, at Charles-Town, this fifth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand, seven hundred and sixty seven, and in the seventh year of his Majesty's reign.

By Order of the Court, WILLIAM LOGAN, Register V. A.

Any number of porters may be had in order to dispatch business, and many other advantages attend the proprietors of ships and cargoes, too tedious to mention.

THE subscriber's late advertisement having had but little effect, in collecting his just dues, he is therefore obliged (thro' necessity, and the fear of shutting up his house for want of his monies to preserve his credit) to put all his outstanding debts into the hands of CHARLES PINCKNEY, Esq; attorney at law, to be immediately collected and recovered, of which all persons concerned are humbly desired to take notice, and excuse his conduct in this respect, for the pressing reasons abovementioned.

By the advice of some persons of distinction, they are determined to take some Boys as Day-Boarders, whose distance from the school, may render it inconvenient for them to return home.
